

Finalists for entrepreneur awards revealed

■ INNOVATORS: The top ten university finalists for this year's £25K Awards for new entrepreneurs have been revealed by the competition's organisers, the Northern Ireland Science Park (NISP).

Pictured looking online at product concepts with Roisin Clancy of the Northern Ireland Science Park are finalists, from left, Julian Ward of Ara Sports, Jonathan Francey of IMAS and Richard Lyttle of SCI-Labs. The £25K Awards are now in their seventh year and aim to encourage students and researchers from the University of Ulster, Queen's University Belfast and Loughry College to transform their research, ideas and enthusiasm into marketable products and new business solutions.

In September the teams go through to the final stage of the process when they will present their products to a panel of judges.